Arrest in 3-county vehicle theft case

THOMAS C. STARK

By MARK CAMPBELL
Madison Courier staff

Authorities in Switzerland County have arrested a man on charges of fleeing and resisting arrest, auto theft and attempted auto theft in connection with a case that is also being investigated by the Carroll County and Gallatin County sheriff's offices in Kentucky.

Thomas C. Stark, 35, listed as homeless at a first hearing in Switzerland County Circuit Court, is facing three Level 6 felonies and being held on a $5,000 full cash bond at the Switzerland County Jail in Vevay.

According to Switzerland County Sheriff Brian Morton, Stark tried to flee from one of Morton's deputies, leading to a pursuit from a location near East Enterprise to a field in Vevay on Dec. 31, after a resident of the area notified police of suspicious activity involving a man asleep in a van alongside a roadway.

When the officer made contact, Stark started the van and fled toward Vevay only to be stopped when officers with the Vevay Police Department deployed tire puncture devices that disabled the vehicle with Stark driving out into a field and then attempting to run on foot. The attempted auto theft charge is apparently related to Stark attempting to steal another vehicle in Vevay once the van he was driving became disabled.

After taking Stark into custody, it was discovered that the van had been stolen in Gallatin County. Additionally, a John Deer UTV that had been reported stolen in Carroll County was discovered near where the van was taken in Gallatin and a stolen pickup was recovered in Carroll near where the UTV was reported stolen, leading police in Carroll, Gallatin and Switzerland counties to investigate whether Stark was involved in all three thefts, as well as the theft of a tractor that was recovered near Ghent.

"For the past three weeks, three Carroll County deputies and Sheriff (Ryan) Gosser, have been investigating the

...to a new year and a new decade

The new year and new decade began with a beautiful sunny day that led hikers, bikers, and nature lovers to Clifty Falls State Park to enjoy the beauty. The park's annual New Year's Day hike drew about 90 people for the three-mile mile, rugged trek with views of Hoffman and Tunnel Falls. Naturalist Kayla Leach led hikers through the trails while bicyclists, runners and other outdoor lovers enjoyed the beauty of the day and the park. Unfortunately, the weather started to turn wetter Thursday with forecasts of more rain or light snow by the end of the week. High temperatures are expected to hover in the 40s for the next few days. Mississippi man dies in New Year's Day SR 56 crash

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier staff writer

A Mississippi man died in a fiery New Year's Day crash involving a pickup truck pulling a trailer on west State Road 56 between Hanover and Blocher.

Jerry L. Monday, 62, of Yazoo City, Mississippi, was partially ejected and trapped under the truck. Fuel leaking from the vehicle ignited and engulfed the 1999 Ford F-250 and Monday was pronounced dead at the accident scene by the Jefferson County Coroner's Office.

Jefferson County Central Dispatch received a report of the single vehicle accident at 11:10 p.m. Wednesday in the 11000 block of West State Road 56, Lexington. Jefferson County Sheriff Deputies responded to the accident scene, assisted by the Kent and Hanover fire departments, the Jefferson County Coroner's Office and Indiana State Police.

An investigation into the crash indicated that Monday's vehicle was traveling east on State Road 56 when, for an undetermined reason, the vehicle crossed left of center of the roadway and left the roadway, said a statement released by JCSO. The vehicle came to rest on the passenger side of the truck with the trailer that was being towed inverted.

Firefighters from Kent were initially dispatched with Hanover dispatched soon after, since the driver needed to be extricated from the wreckage. However, the driver died from his injuries prior to the arrival of either fire department.

While Monday's address is listed as Yazoo City, he was a construction worker and had been working and living in the area for some time prior to the crash as a contractor on a project at the LG&E/KU Trimble County Generating Station at Wises Landing, said Jefferson County Deputy Coorner Logan Gray.

The Stricklin-King Funeral Home, 718 Calhoun Ave, Yazoo City, is handling funeral arrangements.

Kentucky AG asks FBI to probe former pardons by Bevin

By DYLAN LOVAN
Associated Press

LOUISVILLE — Kentucky's new Republican attorney general has asked the FBI to investigate a flurry of pardons by former Gov. Matt Bevin.

The pardons have drawn criticism from both sides of the political aisle after media reports highlighted some that went to convicts who had wealthy or politically connected families.

Kentucky Attorney General Daniel Cameron wrote in a letter Monday that he has sent a formal request to the FBI to "investigate this matter."

"I believe the pardon power should be used sparingly and only after great deliberation with due concern for public safety," Cameron wrote in the letter addressed to two Democratic state lawmakers, who shared the letter Thursday.

Bevin, a Republican, issued hundreds of pardons between his electoral defeat on Nov. 5 and his final day in office on Dec. 9. His pardons included clemency for convicted killer Patrick Baker, whose family held a fundraiser for Bevin in 2018, and a convicted sex offender whose mother was married to a millionaire road contractor.

The pardons also have attracted the attention of Russell Coleman, the U.S. attorney for Kentucky's western district.

On Monday, Coleman said his office would review any pardon-related issues brought to them by state prosecutors or other law enforcement partners.

"I am particularly concerned about the risk to the public by those previously convicted of sex offenses, who by virtue of the state pardon, will not fall under any post-release supervision or be required to register as sex offenders," Coleman said at a news conference.

Coleman was likely referring to the pardon of Micah Schoettle, who was in the second year of a 23-year prison sentence when Bevin pardoned him of rape, sodomy and other sexual crimes. The pardon also removed him from the state's sex offender registry.

Bevin has said in defending the Schoettle pardon that there should have been physical evidence of rape and in his pardoning document he wrote the prosecution of the case was "sloppy at best."

Cameron, who took office on Dec. 17, was responding to requests by two state lawmakers, Sen. Morgan McGarvey and Rep. Chris Harris, who were particularly concerned about the Baker case.

Baker was sentenced to 19 years in prison on convictions of reckless homicide and other crimes in a fatal 2014 home break-in in Knox County. Prosecutors say Baker and another man posed as police to gain entry to Donald Mills' home and shot Mills in front of his wife. Bevin wrote in his pardoning order that Baker's drug addictions led him to fall in with the wrong people and the evidence against Baker was "sketchy at best."

The Courier Journal has reported that Baker's family held a fundraiser at their home for Bevin in 2018 and another GOP donor who gave thousands to Bevin urged the former governor to pardon Baker.

The Kentucky Court of Appeals upheld Baker's conviction a year ago, writing in a unanimous ruling that "Baker's guilt was overwhelming."

One of the inmates Bevin pardoned was former Bedford firefighter John Adam Blackaby, of Crestwood, who had pleaded guilty in 2006 to second-degree arson in connection with a 2005 fire he set at the Bedford Volunteer Fire Department.

Blackaby, who was 21 at the time of the offense, served six months in the Oldham County Jail before being granted probation in 2006. He performed 500 hours of community service and paid restitution to the fire department. His probation was completed in 2011.

Appeal set on religious objections ruling

STATE BRIEFS

Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS — Conservative religious groups are planning to appeal an Indiana judge's ruling that canceled a trial challenging limits on the state's religious objections law that were signed by then-Gov. Mike Pence. An attorney for the groups filed the notice Dec. 20 but hasn't yet submitted any arguments regarding the appeal. That action comes after a Hamilton County judge ruled in November that the groups failed to prove they had faced any harm, agreeing with arguments the state and four cities made that the organizations lacked standing to sue. The lawsuit argues that the groups' constitutional rights were violated by changes the Republican-dominated Legislature made to the 2015 law after a national uproar over whether it could be used to discriminate against gays and lesbians. Those revisions blocked its use as a legal defense for refusing to provide services and prevented the law from being used to override local ordinances with LGBT protections. The judge's November ruling didn't address the lawsuit's claims, including that the changes threaten to hinder the organizations' ability to speak out against same-sex marriages and expose them to claims of discrimination in hiring.

Live dealer games begin at horse casinos

SHELBYVILLE — Indiana's latest gambling expansion launched Wednesday as two horse track casinos near Indianapolis were allowed to have table games with live dealers for the first time. Officials of Harrah's Hoosier Park in Anderson and Indiana Grand Racing and Casino in Shelbyville had long pushed for the change that they expect will draw more gamblers as the two casinos have been limited to only electronic games since opening in 2008. Indiana Grand has more than 40 tables for games such as blackjack, craps and roulette and Hoosier Park has nearly 30 tables as those new sections opened New Year's Day. The change allows the two horse track casinos to operate essentially the same as the 11 other state-regulated casinos, mostly along Lake Michigan and the Ohio River.

Woman gets 39 years in sex trafficking of girl

LAPORTE — A northern Indiana woman will spend up to 39 years in prison in connection with the sex trafficking of a 12-year-old female relative. The 38-year-old woman was sentenced Monday in LaPorte Circuit Court. She was charged with aiding, inducing or causing child molesting and trafficking of a minor. She and her boyfriend were charged in 2018. Police have said he fatally shot himself when officers went to his home with an arrest warrant.

Kentucky

State reverses ruling on teacher sickouts

FRANKFORT — Kentucky Gov. Andy Beshear's administration is reversing a decision by the previous administration, now saying that more than 1,000 public school teachers did not break the law when they participated in protests that shut down some schools. Beshear, a Democrat, narrowly defeated Republican Gov. Matt Bevin earlier this year. Before winning the election, Beshear served as the state's attorney general, where he fought Bevin's efforts to investigate the protesting teachers. A Monday letter from Beshear's Labor Cabinet secretary, Larry Roberts, to the cabinet's inspector general says Bevin Labor Secretary David Dickerson's finding that protesting teachers engaged in an illegal work stoppage was "improper and contrary to law." The protests over several education bills in Kentucky were part of a wave of teacher activism that began in 2018 in West Virginia and spread to other states, including Indiana, Oklahoma and Arizona. In "sickouts," many of the teachers called in sick in order to go to the Capitol in Frankfort and protest. Some schools were forced to cancel classes because they did not have enough personnel. The 1,074 teachers Dickerson found to have violated the law could have been assessed civil penalties up to $1,000 per person for each day away from work, but Dickerson declined to do so. In the letter reversing Dickerson's decision, Roberts writes "there was no 'strike' or 'work stoppage' ... because the teachers were exercising constitutional rights to speech, petition, and assembly when they came to the Capitol, and were not engaged in a dispute with their employers concerning the terms of their employment."

State officers to be sworn in next week

FRANKFORT — Constitutional officers who were elected in November will be sworn into office next week, Kentucky officials said. An inaugural ceremony is planned Monday morning at the Capitol Rotunda in Frankfort. Those taking the oath of office include Attorney General Daniel Cameron, Auditor Mike Harmon, Treasurer Allison Ball, Agriculture Commissioner Ryan Quarles and Secretary of State-elect Michael G. Adams.

Woman submitted dog urine for drug screening

PINEVILLE — A Kentucky woman gave her probation officer a dog urine sample during a drug screening, police said. Julie Miller, 40, of Arjay, was arrested Monday on a charge of tampering with physical evidence. She also was charged with a parole violation and trafficking in a controlled substance.

New Indiana laws from '19 in effect

By APRILE RICKERT
(Jeffersonville & New Albany) News and Tribune

INDIANA — Although the bulk of the laws passed in the 2019 Indiana legislative session went into effect July 1, a few still weren't effective until Jan. 1. Here are some affecting education and veterans issues that are now in effect.

EDUCATION

• Public Law 268 (House Enrolled Act 1628) — Clarifies some language related to the pre-kindergarten test pilot program, expanding its definitions of an eligible and limited eligibility child.

In both cases, the child must be between 4 and 5 years old and live in Indiana. For a child to be eligible for the program, he or she must also live in a household that has an annual income less than 127 percent of the federal poverty line. The limited eligibility child cannot live in a household that earns more than 185 percent of the federal poverty level and must live with a parent who is working or attending job training, is actively seeking employment or received Social Security disability insurance or supplemental security income benefits.

VETERANS

• Public Law 234 (Indiana House Enrolled Act 1053) — Details how disabled veterans' license plates should be designed in Indiana. Starting Jan. 1, all such plates should read "Disabled Hoosier Veteran" at the bottom, with a wheelchair symbol indicating that the person has a disability. An emblem of the branch of service the veteran served in will also adorn the plate.

• Public Law 82 (Indiana House Enrolled Act 1268) — Aims to better track the status of veterans in Indiana, through the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. Applicants for an Indiana drivers license or identification card will be asked two optional questions: "Have you served in the Armed Forces of the United States?" and "Are you the surviving spouse of someone who served in the...?"

S'western budget mistake is 'fixed'

By COLLIN OVERTON
Courier staff writer

Southwestern schools received word over the holidays that a $700,000 mistake in their 2020 budget had been corrected by the Department of Local Government and Finance (DLGF), the state entity that reviews and approves the tax rates and levies in Indiana.

In December Southwestern treasurer Laura Boldery noticed $700,000 missing from the district's education fund in the notice sent to the district by the DLGF. The notice showed an extra $500,000 transferred to the operations fund and $200,000 owed in loans in the new budget, just weeks before it was to be finalized by Dec. 31. Boldery said neither the transfer nor the loans were authorized and were incorrectly taken from the education fund, which covers teachers, counselors, nurses, principals and personnel who deal directly with students.

The total budget was supposed to reflect about $9.5 million, but the notice showed the district at about $8.8 million. A Dec. 19 Madison Courier article outlined the problem.

The amounts were corrected, Boldery said, and she received a call from DLGF Commissioner Wesley Bennett thanking her for pointing out the mistake and asking if the revised budget looked OK.

"He had read the article in the paper and he called and thanked me for finding their mistakes, so I'm very pleased...I told him he could give us more [money] if he wanted to — he didn't offer that," Boldery joked.

theft of numerous items in the Ghent and Carrollton areas," said a statement by the Carroll Sheriff's Office. "In conjunction with a joint investigation with the Gallatin County Sheriff's Office, our office has been able to recover over $60,000 of dollars worth of stolen property, including a John Deere Tractor, a Ford F250 pickup and a Gator UTV ...

"We were also able to solve a criminal mischief case that was related to the thefts that occurred near Ford Road. An individual has been charged with these crimes and is currently incarcerated in the Switzerland County Jail," the statement added.

"The investigation is ongoing between Carroll, Gallatin, and Switzerland counties, and more arrests are expected."

"Our office is grateful for the cooperation and information sharing between our three counties that enabled these crimes and several in Gallatin County and Switzerland to be cleared by arrest."

According to police in Carroll and Switzerland, Stark has listed residences in the Ghent area, in downtown Louisville and in Switzerland County in the past but he said he is now homeless at his court appearance Thursday.

However, authorities in both states said they know Stark well from previous theft and fraud charges.

Police in Indiana and Kentucky said the investigation is still ongoing along with investigations into other outstanding theft cases in the area.

Trimble sanitation worker severely hurt in U.S. 421 crash

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier staff writer

A sanitation worker in Trimble County was severely injured when he was pinned between his truck and another vehicle while servicing his route in the Bedford city limits Tuesday, Dec. 31.

Richard Sheldon Morris, 25, of Taylorsville, Kentucky, was servicing his route in the southbound lane of U.S. 421 North in Bedford when he was struck and pinned against his truck by a southbound SUV driven by Ashley Jennings, 35, of Milton, shortly after 7 a.m. and pinned between the vehicles in the collision. The accident took place between the 400 and 500 blocks of U.S. 421 North near the Trimble Family Practice medical clinic.

It took first responders from the Trimble County EMS and Milton Fire & Rescue about 30 minutes to free Morris from the mangled wreckage before he was flown by helicopter to the trauma center at University Hospital in Louisville.

According to Matt Sudduth, public information officer for Kentucky State Police Post 5 at Campbellsburg, the injuries to Morris were severe enough to be life-threatening but quick action by first responders and the availabilty of air transport to the trauma center were life-saving. He said Morris suffered a severely lacerated leg as well as internal injuries and possible head injuries.

Morris has since undergone several surgeries and spent time as a patient in the Intensive Care Unit at the Louisville hospital. He was having additional surgery Friday morning and could be hospitalized for the next several weeks.

Tuesday's crash scene where Rumpke sanitation worker Sheldon Morris was severely injured on U.S. 421 in Bedford, Kentucky.

Sudduth said Morris is now in stable condition.

No charges were filed during the initial investigation. The accident is being investigated by Kentucky State Police.

OT free throws lift Shawe over Edinburgh

Ethan Stuart, Henry Grote each score 18

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Courier Staff Writer
dcampbell@madisoncourier.com

Shawe Memorial hit the free throws when it needed them to lift the Hilltoppers to a 67-64 overtime win over Edinburgh at home in boys basketball on Thursday.

The Hilltoppers struggled at times at the line, going 26-for-39 overall throughout the 36-minute game. But it was in the extra session that Shawe excelled, making six out of eight over the final 23 seconds to pull out the win.

It wasn't pretty at times, but watching his team overcome adversity and a second-half charge by Edinburgh to pull out the win brought a smile to coach Dan Hambrick's face.

"This is like the third or fourth game that we've been down eight or 10 points in the third quarter and we've chipped away and pulled it out," Hambrick said. "It wasn't our prettiest game, but I'll take it."

Neither team shot better that 30% from the floor in an ugly first half that saw Shawe take a 17-15 lead into halftime. The Hilltoppers opened the third on fire, jumping out on an 8-2 run to build a 25-17 cushion.

But the rest of the third belonged to Edinburgh, which closed the quarter on a 15-0 run to seize a 32-25 lead.

Previous Shawe teams might have collapsed at that point. But showing the confidence that comes from having won four out of heir last six games, the Hilltoppers righted the ship at the start of the fourth and quickly took the lead at 39-38 on a Grayson May layup with 3:46 to play.

The final four minutes of regulation were a back and forth affair. The two teams trade the lead five times over the span and were tied five other times as neither could get pull away.

Henry Grote drilled back-to-back 3-pointers to put Shawe ahead 48-44 with 1:28 to go, but Edinburgh's Chase Littlejohn answered with a trey of his own almost immediately to

Vols late score stuns IU at Gator, 23-22

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Tennessee sure knows how to get out of a huge hole.

The Volunteers scored twice in a 30-second span late, using an onside kick to help escape a 13-point deficit, and then held on to stun Indiana 23-22 in the Gator Bowl on Thursday night.

The rally was indicative of Tennessee's season, which started 1-4 and ended with six consecutive wins.

"Everybody in the country had given up on these guys," second-year coach Jeremy Pruitt said.

Pruitt was talking about the season. He could have been talking about the game.

The Hoosiers (8-5) looked to be in control in the second half after scoring two touchdowns in a 1:03 span, the second one coming on Jamar Johnson's 63-yard interception return, and later adding a pair of field goals.

Indiana was up 22-9 before Tennessee (8-5) shocked most of the nearly 62,000 fans on hand.

Quavaris Crouch scored on a 1-yard plunge and then fellow running back Eric Gray recovered a surprise onside kick that barely went the mandatory 10 yards. Gray scored from 16 yards out a few plays later to put the Vols on top for good.

"Obviously, very very disappointing to have a fourth-quarter lead and let it slip away," said Indiana coach Tom Allen, whose team was seeking its first nine-win season since 1967. "I'm not going to sit here and point fingers and blame. At the end of the day, it's my responsibility for us to find a way to win the game. We didn't do that."

Gray was named the game's Most Valuable Player.

Logan Justus missed an extra point in the third quarter that turned out to be costly and was wide right on a 52-yard field goal attempt with 2:12 remaining. Justus' kick had the distance but sailed just outside the right upright.

Tennessee punted with 1:02 remaining, but Indiana failed to get back into field goal range.

THE TAKEAWAY

Indiana: The Hoosiers have to find a replacement for offensive coordinator Kalen DeBoer, who stayed for the bowl game after getting the head coaching job at Fresno State. DeBoer gets much of the credit for Indiana's offensive turnaround.

kill the momentum. After a Jack Grote free throw put the Hilltoppers up two, Littlejohn drained another 3-pointer to put the Lancers ahead by one with 25 seconds to go.

Shawe had possession and a chance to win the game in regulation when Ethan Stuart was fouled with 5.5 seconds to go. But the Hilltopper senior hit only one shot to tie the game, and Edinburgh's game-winner missed wide to send the contest into overtime.

Shawe never trailed in the overtime, but the game was far from over. May's 3-pointer put the Hilltoppers up three early and a steal and layup by Henry Grote a few seconds later made the lead four.

From there it was just a matter of free throws and whether the Hilltoppers could hit them. Jack Grote hit a pair with 39 seconds to go to push the lead to six (60-54) and after an Edinburgh basket, Grote hit another to put Shawe ahead 61-56 with 31 seconds left.

From there, the Hilltoppers put the ball in Chandler Cole's hands and the senior responded with four free throws over the next 10 seconds to keep the Lancers at bay.

"It was like a scene out of 'Hoosiers' on the bench. I asked who wanted to take the shots and the four other guys said that Chandler should do it," Hambrick said. "They could tell who had the hot hand and who should be taking the shots. It was neat to see."

Edinburgh (2-9) wasn't through yet. The Lancers closed to within three on a Noah Detling free throw and ,after two missed freebies on the Shawe's end, had a chance to pull even closer but turned the ball over.

Henry Grote then took his turn at the line and hit two for the Hilltoppers. After two free throws by Caleb Dewey, Jack Grote hit two more to put Shawe ahead 67-62 with eight seconds to go.

Edinburgh scored quickly on a bucket by Dewey, but with no timeouts and the clock under five seconds, the Lancers were unable to stop the clock as Shawe simply let time expire to claim the win.

Stuart finished the game with 18 points and 12 rebounds after playing 35 of the 36 minutes. Henry Grote also had 18 points and added six rebounds. Cole scored 16 points and had eight rebounds.

Dewey scored 20 points to lead Edinburgh while Detling scored 12.

Shawe didn't shoot as well from the floor as Edinburgh, hitting only 40% for the game to 44% for the Lancers, but the Hilltoppers' 26-17 edge in free throws proved to be the difference.

Shawe, which has now won back-to-back games, has a chance at a three-game win streak for the first time since the 2014-15 season when the Hilltoppers travel to the Indiana School for the Deaf Saturday. Shawe then visits Oldenburg Academy next Friday.

"We take it one game at a time, but if you were to tell me — and a lot of coaches wouldn't say this — that we would be 5-5 after 10 games, I'd say 'all right,'" Hambrick said. "We've played some good teams and to be 5-5 at almost the halfway mark, I'll take it."

Bowden TDs lead UK over Va. Tech, 37-30

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Lynn Bowden Jr. outplayed Virginia Tech all day with his feet.

Then he closed them out with his arm.

Bowden ran for 233 yards on 34 carries, and then tossed a 13-yard touchdown pass to Josh Ali with 15 seconds left as Kentucky rallied behind its remarkable receiver-turned-quarterback to beat Virginia Tech 37-30 on Tuesday in the Belk Bowl.

Bowden ran for two touchdowns before leading an 18-play, 85-yard game-winning drive that took more than eight minutes off the clock. It ended with Ali getting open down the middle of the end zone.

Bowden, who took over as Kentucky's quarterback after five games because of injuries, passed for 73 yards on 12 attempts. His rushing day was the biggest in a bowl game since Texas A&M's Johnny Manziel ran for 219 yards vs. Oklahoma in 2013 and Louisville's Lamar Jackson ran for 233 yards in the 2015 Music City Bowl.

The win was Kentucky's second straight in bowl games. The Wildcats have appeared in four straight bowl games.

BRIDGE

HE IS THE YOUNGEST WINNER – AGAIN

The International Bridge Press Association's Personality of 2019 was Michal Klukowski. At 23, he is easily the youngest winner of this award. But this is not an unusual moniker for Klukowski.

Born in Poland, but now representing Monaco in major championships, he won his first national title in 2011 when 15. The next year, he was on the Polish team that won the Youngsters (under 21) World Team Championship. Since then, Klukowski has won three open world team titles, two Rosenblums and one Bermuda Bowl, and another world youth championship.

His partner on the Monaco team is Piotr Gawrys, who won his first world title, the 1984 Team Olympiad, 12 years before Klukowski was born!

Klukowski learned to play the game when nine. His parents were keen players and encouraged him to take classes at their town bridge club.

Klukowski read his opponent well in this deal from a world championship match between Monaco and Lavazza. At both tables, the contract was four hearts, and each West led the club ace, then cashed the diamond ace.

At the other table, Geir Helgemo (West) played a second diamond at trick three. The declarer did not work out what to do from there.

Against Klukowski, West cashed the spade ace at trick three. Now, with a discard available on the spade queen, declarer just had to draw trumps. The percentage play is to cash the ace and king, but Klukowski felt that West thought he had a fourth defensive trick. So, Klukowski cashed the heart king, then played a heart to dummy's jack. When that held, Klukowski drew the last trump and claimed.

Officer remembered for his sacrifice

Only MPD officer killed in line of duty honored

Joe Knoebel, a cousin of Frank Knoebel, and other family members, officers and community leaders listen as Chief Jeremey Perkins speaks about the late officer's sacrifice at a ceremony to remember Knoebel. Perkins talked about about Knoebel's death in the line of duty and his reputation in the community. After the ceremony Joe Knoebel chatted with Capt. D.J. Stephan, (middle) and Patrol Officer Chad Wehner. (Madison Courier photos by Collin Overton)

Officers, community leaders and family of the last City of Madison Police Department officer killed in the line of duty — Frank Knoebel — gathered outside the Madison Police Department Monday to honor him on the anniversary of his death.

Knoebel died Dec. 30, 1930, at 3 p.m. after being shot twice in the abdomen while trying to apprehend a burglary suspect, Walter Carlin, in the basement of the Odd Fellows Lodge on Mulberry Street in downtown Madison. Despite his wounds, Knoebel was able to get the gun away from Carlin, climb a flight of stairs and block the exit while a janitor subdued the suspect and then-Chief Charles V. Stewart placed him under arrest. Knoebel died 30 minutes later from his injuries.

MPD Chief Jeremey Perkins spoke for a few minutes about Knoebel and his sacrifice.

"He used his last ounce of strength, and almost literally his last drop of blood. Only when the man was securely handcuffed did Frank surrender to his wounds," Perkins said.

Nearly 90 years have passed since Knoebel's death, but the department has tried to keep his memory alive in recent years. They hosted a ceremony last year on Dec. 30 dedicating a plaque in his honor on the front of the police station.

"Frank was well known throughout the city for his good-natured personality," Perkins said. "His bravery on that cold afternoon increased his fame. The funeral procession was eight blocks long. Newspapers intensely covered the murder and the trial that followed."

Mayor Bob Courtney was in attendance and thanked law enforcement for their sacrifices.

"It's a reminder that these ceremonies are going on across the country all too often — the sacrifices that our men and women in law enforcement and their families make for our communities, and we're very grateful," Courtney said.

Joe and John Knoebel, Frank Knoebel's cousins, were there.

Although closely related, Joe Knoebel said he didn't know about Frank and his death until he was a teenager working at his father's clothing store, John Knoebel and Son, in the early 1950s.

He explained that his great-grandfather was a cousin of Frank's father, who died a few years later in 1934. The family originally lived in Seymour, but moved to Madison in 1912, he said.

"It's a long-overdue honor. I'm tickled to death that Jeremey took the bull by the horns and did it...it's an honor for the relatives that are still alive," Joe Knoebel said.

Guilted into generosity by children and grandchildren

Annie Lane

Dear Annie: My husband and I are in our mid-60s and have been married for 45 years. We had our children early in our marriage and made many sacrifices to make sure our daughter and son had all the benefits of a well-rounded childhood. Because this took up most of our discretionary income, rarely did my husband and I eat out, and we took very inexpensive vacations, if we went anywhere. During our early marriage, we pursued higher education and worked our way into well-paying jobs.

About 25 years ago, we received the first of what's ended up being numerous inheritances. We have continued to be generous to our children, who are now in their late 30s. We paid for their college and gave them a substantial amount of money for down payments on their first homes. We have four grandchildren and have invested enough money in our state's college savings plan that they will have very little, if any, college debt.

When my father died eight years ago, we gave each of our children a Christmas present that was enough to pay off their mortgages. That may have been a mistake. I feel that every Christmas since has been a disappointment. We're very practical, so we give checks. The checks seem insignificant in comparison to the "big one," and I'm sure our gifts are a huge disappointment. The biggest problem of all is that my husband and I feel guilty spending money on traveling, a hobby we love. I suspect that my daughter, in particular, feels that I'm wasting her money.

How much do parents owe adult children? What about our grandchildren? Their parents aren't saving money, and I don't see much chance that they're going to get the kind of benefits that our children have received. Should we cut back on our spending so we can give them down payments for homes when they get to that stage in their lives? — To Give or Not to Give

Dear TGONTG: Please, step away from the checkbook. Your adult children don't need another cent. What they do need, sorely, is some sense. To continue giving them cash is to rob them of valuable experience and life lessons.

You've already given your grandchildren immense advantages, as well. If and when the time comes that they want to buy houses, they can work hard (using those great college educations for which you paid) and set aside the money for a down payment, just like millions of other Americans.

Enjoy your retirement. Take as many trips you want, and don't take any guilt-tripping from your kids. If you get the itch to be generous with your wallet, donate to folks who need it. Charity Navigator (https://www.charitynavigator.org/) is a great resource.

Dear Annie: Frequently, I read letters in your column from older people complaining that their children, grandchildren and others do not acknowledge gifts or send thank-you notes. I have another take on this. If someone doesn't thank another for a favor done or a gift given, maybe it is because he or she doesn't feel the emotion of gratitude. How sad. It is a wonderful feeling to know that you are important enough to another person for them to give you a gift or a special service. If they don't feel this, they are the ones who are the poorer for it. I have come to realize that the inability to feel gratitude is terribly impoverishing. Maybe gratitude is the modern secular equivalent of the Christian idea of grace. The gift-giver loves me despite my faults, just as Christians believe that God loves and forgives them despite their faults. — Secular Grace

Dear Secular Grace: In response to your lovely letter, a quote: "I would maintain that thanks are the highest form of thought, and that gratitude is happiness doubled by wonder." — G.K. Chesterton

"Ask Me Anything: A Year of Advice From Dear Annie" is out now!
